a compact user friendly reference book addressing many of the kinds of questions about grammar that regularly confront teachers both novice and experienced when planning or executing their lessons a glance at any web site discussion forum or social network shared by teachers of English suggests that teachers are constantly asking each other questions related to pedagogical grammar. These may simply be questions about terminology or categorisation: what is a clause, is like a preposition, or they may seek to unravel subtle grammatical distinctions: what is the difference between for and since, or explain persistent learner errors: why in bed and not in the bed. This book is designed to fulfil this basic everyday need as well as being a book that can be read for interest and even pleasure in its own right.

reference area with four clear sections: definitions, grammar patterns, collocations and set phrases, examples of real language from corpus research, varied exercises which practise and expand language idioms and natural phrases, language notes on usage.

Since 1979 teachers have trusted Cambridge Handbooks for Language Teachers to provide practical ideas, techniques and activities for the teaching of English and other languages. This book brings together 100 of the best loved activities selected by current and former series editors Scott Thornbury and Penny Ur, based on recommendations by authors. It begins by describing some general principles of what makes a good language teaching activity, including clear learning outcomes, minimal material and preparation, demands, versatility and durability over time. The activities are organised into six clear sections covering speaking, listening, reading, writing, vocabulary and grammar. The collection as a whole represents the essence of good language teaching practice over nearly half a century, making it an essential resource for teachers.

What if you could teach without relying on a textbook, a syllabus or a lesson plan? What if you and your learners could co-create your own language learning experiences? What if you could foster a culture of collaboration, reflection and empowerment in your classroom? Inspired by the widespread interest generated by Scott Thornbury's article A Dogma for EFL (2000), this is an approach that a growing number of teachers have been exploring, foregrounding the learner and focusing on the emergent materials, light and conversation.
